Natura 2000 regime

IV. Humans as part of the ecosystem: Approaches to enlarge the space for economic activities

Recent years:

- Increasing acceptance of the strict character of Natura 2000 (clarity on consequences)
- understanding that the system will continue to be very stringent as long as nature is in a bad condition
- Understanding that system will work less strict when the objectives have been reached: Increasing interest to actively invest in nature to speed-up the process
